Community Builders of Greene County participants are expected to attend and fully participate in all sessions in their entirety. Participants are expected to arrive on time, and a light dinner will be served at each session. Participants should immediately add all sessions to their calendars.

Because there are only 8 sessions to the program, it is recommended that participants miss no more than two sessions in the program. However, we recognize that there may be times when participants will be unable to attend due to illness or emergencies. If you are unable to attend a session or complete the program, you should contact the Community Foundation of Greene County at 724-627-2010 as early as possible. Participants who do miss a session are asked to contact the program manager to get information and/or assignments from the missed session.

If a participant experiences a debilitating illness, death in the immediate family or other problem that requires her or him to miss multiple sessions, the participant may have the opportunity to make up similar sessions in a future program year, graduate, and receive a certificate at a later date.

In addition to session attendance, participants are encouraged to attend one or more community or non-profit board meetings to assess their effectiveness. Participants will report their observations of these meetings to the entire class. Preferably, these are meetings in addition to those the participant may regularly attend. Participants may go to meetings in groups if they prefer. Please be respectful and remember to check with the organization prior to attending a meeting.

All participants are expected to contribute to class activities and discussion. Participants will not be disruptive to fellow participants, facilitators, presenters or committee members. During this program, participants may be challenged with different points of view, value systems, and beliefs that may or may not agree with their own. Failure to respect others in the program will result in removal from the program, at the discretion of the Community Builders of Greene County steering committee.

Dress for all sessions is casual. There is no formal dress code; however, please choose attire that is not offensive to other participants and/or presenters. Jeans are fine.
