From the Chairperson

Dear Friends,

What an exciting year 2014 was for the Community Foundation of Greene County. The Foundation has truly witnessed a year of growth and commitment. More than $402,000 was awarded in grants to nonprofit organizations and scholarships to students of all ages. Grants were also awarded to help the food insecure, enrichment of the arts and culture programs and enhancement of educational activities.

Several milestones were achieved in 2014 including exceeding the projected annual growth rate of 10%. The Community Builders of Greene County program had new high participation. The Community Foundation also doubled its size to create a meeting space that can be utilized by businesses and community members to host meetings and gatherings.

The best milestone was our re-accreditation with the National Standards for U.S. Community Foundations®. This voluntary process, which occurs every five years, means that we continue to be a part of a group of community foundations that has met the nation’s highest philanthropic standards for operational quality, integrity and accountability.

As a member of the CFGC board in different capacities over the past 13 years, I look back on those years and am astounded at what has been accomplished.

The year’s successes would not be possible without the commitment and compassion of Greene County donors and community. And for that you are highly thanked! Please continue to spread the word about the impact the Community Foundation has had and is having on our community so that we can continue to support the things that make Greene County so great.

Sincerely,
Nancy I. Davis, Ed.D.

Designated Funds

The Community Foundation of Greene County currently has 19 designated endowment funds, which allow a donor to identify a specific organization which will be the beneficiary of the fund upon establishment. The Community Foundation assumes oversight responsibility for ensuring that these funds are distributed for the purposes the donor intends.

The Lance Corporal Steven Phillips Memorial Fund

The Lance Corporal Steven Phillips Memorial Fund is a designated fund that was established in 2008 by Jim and Paulette Phillips after the death of their son, Steven, while serving in Iraq. As a graduate of the Greene County Career and Technology Center’s (GCCTC) drafting program, the fund was established to support that program.

Over the years, the fund has provided nearly $5,500 in grants to the GCCTC drafting program. In 2014, the fund helped the GCCTC purchase a 3D printer for the drafting program. 3D printers are an innovative technology used in drafting and several of GCCTC’s industry partners recommended they acquire a printer to better prepare students for their future careers. The school was able to extract some funding from their general account to purchase the printer but, “Without the help of the grant, we wouldn’t have been able to purchase the printer,” said Karen Pflugh, Director of the GCCTC. The printer has changed the curriculum for drafting students to include new projects such as building derby cars and testing them.

Dolores McCracken Fund

The Dolores McCracken Fund for the Humane Society of Greene County was established in 2010 through the estate of Dolores McCracken to provide dog shelters to the Greene County Humane Society. Jeff McCracken, one of three sons of Jack and Dolores McCracken, survives his parents and is proud of the legacy his parents were able to leave for the county.

“With the help of the Community Foundation, we could fulfill my mother’s wishes after her passing. They handle all the paperwork, distributions and investments,” said McCracken. Jane Gapen, Director of the Humane Society of Greene County, is so grateful for the annual gift that allows the organization to help so many animals in the county. "The McCracken’s are our little angels. The shelters have saved a lot of animals lives and made a big impact for us," explained Gapen. The Humane Society is able to use the shelters at their facility and also provide them to residents free of charge if they need shelters for their animals.

No Longer Me Fund and No Place to Call Home Fund and Grant

Many donors to the Community Foundation of Greene County select a donor-advised fund, which allows the donor to suggest specific grants to be made from the fund. Donors play a key role in helping to recommend how the funds will be granted.

No Longer Me: Alzheimer’s Fund

The No Longer Me Fund, a donor advised fund, was created by the Observer Publishing Company in 2014. After publishing a series of articles in the paper on Alzheimer's and dementia which involved families, patients and doctors, the newspaper saw the need for caregiver relief.

“There were two stipulations for the fund: that the money stay local and it was focused on caregivers of Alzheimer’s and dementia patients,” said Lucy Corwin Director of News for the Observer Reporter. The Observer Reporter enlisted the Community Foundation to create a fund in order to provide more transparency to their fundraising and to help absorb some of the administrative burden.

Grants from the Fund were awarded to the Alzheimer's Association to support local programming and education for caregivers and also to the Southwestern Pennsylvania Area on Aging to fund adult day care.

No Place to Call Home: Homeless Fund Grant

The No Place to Call Home Fund, a donor advised fund which was established by the Observer Publishing Company in 2013, awarded three grants in March of 2014. The Fund was established to benefit programs that help the local homeless population. One of the three grants was awarded to the Salvation Army for Greene County.

Sister Audrey Quinn, Director of the Greene County Service Center, learned about the grant opportunity in the local Observer-Reporter newspaper, and was quick to apply. The grant enabled the Salvation Army to distribute hygiene kits, backpacks and also provide lodging for homeless individuals in need.

"Those being helped are so grateful because many have nothing and this is truly a blessing,” said Sister Audrey.

DONOR-ADvised FUNDS

The Forget-Me-Not Fund – To support educational, civic, environmental and charitable programs in Dunkard Township, Pennsylvania and the Dunkard Creek watershed
The Michael A. Milinovich Memorial Fund – To provide support for the preservation of Croatian or Slavic music

Endowed and Restricted Funds 2014

Discretionary Funds

Discretionary funds are the most flexible gifts a donor can make to the Community Foundation of Greene County. Discretionary, or unrestricted, gifts enable the Community Foundation to respond to changing community needs from year to year while perpetuating donor generosity. The fund may be named after a donor, or become part of a common pool of similar gifts. The foundation currently has five discretionary operating and grantmaking funds and nine field of interest grantmaking funds.

Margaret E. Rock Fund

One discretionary fund is the Margaret E. Rock Fund. Peggy Rock was asked to become a board member of the Community Foundation not long after its inception and remained a board member for 11 years. Rock’s years of service influenced her to create a discretionary fund, the Margaret E. Rock Fund, with the Community Foundation. “I saw a need for the foundation to have funds that it could put into emergency situations or toward issues that came to their attention and needed funding,” explained Rock. This fund has allowed $2,914 to be awarded since 2009 with $775 distributed in 2014.

Futures Fund

“The community garden is thriving,” exclaimed Katy Pretz, Director of the Flennekin Library in Carmichaels, PA, with cauliflower, beans, cabbage and more! In 2013, the Library began the community garden project, which involves students in planting vegetables in the garden constructed at the library, and later donating the harvest to residents in need. The garden has continued to prosper over the years and was doing so well, the Library noticed their water bill increasing. Folks at the library took this opportunity to introduce environmental stewardship to students through a rain barrel project. “Rain barrels not only help us keep our costs down, but set an example of environmental action,” explained Pretz. Without a fulltime fundraising staff, the library looked to the Community Foundation to help supplement their fundraising efforts. In 2014, the Library was awarded a grant from the discretionary field of interest funds, the Futures Fund, to purchase the rain barrels. The Futures Fund was founded by then CFGC Board Chairwoman, Sally Cameron in 2004 to provide support to innovative projects or programs that will advance the economic or social well-being of Greene County.

Forever Greene Fund

“Typically churches don’t look for grant money,” explained Tom Shumaker, Chairman of the Board of the Clarksville Christian Church. The church had been functioning for years with an inoperative stair lift. “We have several events a year where the community at large attends, and we’ve had to carry wheel chairs down the steps because the stair lift wasn’t working. Now they can use the stair lift to participate in fellowship,” said Shumaker. In 2014, the church was awarded a grant from the Forever Greene Fund to help cover the costs of the chair lift. The Forever Greene Fund was set up in 2009 by the CFGC Board of Directors as a way to set-aside some of their own operating funds in order to meet community needs.

Educational Improvement Tax Credit (EITC) Programs

Each year the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development accepts contributions from area businesses and corporations to be used toward the Educational Improvement Tax Credit (EITC) program. Through EITC designated organizations like the Community Foundation of Greene County, funds are distributed to support innovative educational programs in public schools, scholarships for children attending accredited K-12 private schools and children attending qualified approved Pre-Kindergarten programs.

"EITC is a way to channel more dollars into communities in a very easy way. It’s a great program the state offers,” said Ellen Rossi, EQT Foundation Manager. Many corporations like EQT, CONSOL Energy and Waste Management participate in the EITC program to help improve Greene County education.

“The program allows us to continue with our commitment to improving the areas we serve, and helps to ensure the future of our communities by providing children with the opportunity to reach their full potential,” said Erika Deyermin-Young Public Affairs Coordinator, Western Pennsylvania for Waste Management.

Public Schools

In 2014, $114,666 were donated through the Foundation’s EITC program to fund numerous public school projects including the Greene County Envirothon, The Artist in Residence Program at Bobtown Elementary School and the BotsIQ Robotics Competition for the Greene Program at Bobtown Elementary School and the County Envirothon, The Artist in Residence public school projects including the Greene Foundation’s EITC program to fund numerous corporations to be used toward the Education-

2014 EITC Donors

The Community Foundation of Greene County is grateful to the following corporations and businesses which provided support for the 2014 EITC Program. Thanks to their generosity, CFGC received $225,399 for scholarships and public school innovative curriculum grants during 2014.

Pre-K Scholarships

The Christian Sandbox Preschool, Nanny’s Creative Learning Center PreSchool and Here Wee Grow Nazarene Preschool are just a few of the pre-kindergarten programs in Greene County that are approved to receive EITC scholarships. Families that meet income criteria can apply through the Foundation to receive a scholarship for children to attend an approved pre-kindergarten program. “It really has helped so many families. Some of the students enrolled probably would not be able to attend if they weren’t awarded the scholarship,” explains Marge Cole, Director of the Christian Sandbox.

K-12 Scholarships

Similar to pre-kindergarten scholarships, companies and business are also able to support the K-12 scholarship program through EITC. This provides scholarships to students whose families meet specific income criteria. Many families in Greene County have benefited from this program including the Stokes family of Wind Ridge, PA.

Father of three girls attending kindergarten, second and fifth grades at Open Door Christian Academy, Adam Stokes is incredibly thankful for the scholarships his family has received. “It’s been pretty awesome. The scholarships have eased some of our stress in being able to send our girls to Open Door Christian Academy,” explained Stokes.

Professional Advisors

Professional advisors are key to the success of a community foundation. Many community members want to give philanthropically but aren’t sure how to get started or where to invest their funds. “When my clients give to the Community Foundation of Greene County, they can rest easy knowing their gift is being properly managed,” explained Attorney Tim Logan. Tim stresses to his clients that the Foundation allows donors to invest their funds where they can be managed to their fullest potential and to continue to award grants or scholarships year after year if they choose an endowed fund. “Just because someone doesn’t have a large estate doesn’t mean they can’t make a lasting charitable impact,” said Tim. With the help of the Community Foundation, an endowed fund can continue to support the community long after the estate is settled.

As a Certified Public Accountant and Certified Public Investor in Greene County for decades, Tom Milinovich of Milinovich & Co. is no stranger to recommending the Community Foundation to his clients. “Most people just aren’t aware of the flexibility the Community Foundation offers,” explained Milinovich who is also a long time board member of the Community Foundation. “The Community Foundation is the only organization that can hold funds for the benefit of other organizations.” Donors have the option to create their own funds or give toward existing scholarships or funds. Setting up a fund is quick and easy as well as a tax deduction.

There is no deficit when it comes to leadership in Greene County and the Community Foundation of Greene County is a crucial part of facilitating this leadership development. Through outreach and capacity building for nonprofit organizations, the Foundation strives to provide activities such as strategy sessions to identify county needs, providing technical assistance programs to nonprofit organizations and conducting a series of nonprofit leadership development classes.

Community Builders –

In 2004, the Community Foundation of Greene County partnered with the Greene County Economic Development Office, Greene County Human Services Office, Community Action Southwest, Waynesburg University, Southwest Regional Medical Center, Westmoreland Community College and others to organize the leadership program: Community Builders of Greene County. With over 150 graduates to date, the nonprofit leadership program guides students through leadership, nonprofit governance and boards of directors, financial management, communication and teamwork, strategic planning, public relations, grant writing, fundraising and volunteer engagement.

Barb Wise, now the Executive Director of the Greene County United Way, graduated along with over 20 others from the inaugural Community Builders class in 2004 and now actively recruits for the program. “Community Builders changed my whole life… it brought out the real me,” recalls Barb. After graduating, Barb served on numerous non-profit boards and became more involved in the community. She boasts about the networking the program provided as well as the extensive curriculum to prepare students to be an effective board member.

After working in government for 38 years, Barb Cole looked to Community Builders to help fill in the gaps with her new role in the nonprofit sector at Pennsylvania Career Link – Greene County. “I had served on boards for over 15 years, but Community Builders gave me all the non-profit pieces,” Barb said. As a 2014 graduate of the program, Barb recommends it to anyone looking to join a board to understand the commitment and to be able to fully serve the organization.

Also from the class of 2014, Max Loughman is a full time airline captain, running his own non-profit S.O.A.R., and recommends the Community Builders program to anyone interested in community service. “It’s a great program that provides graduates with a good tool box of resources to effect change in their communities,” explains Max.

The program runs September through December and meets every other Monday night. There is a fee to participate for the program. To learn more visit http://cfgcpa.org/commbuilders.html.
The Greene County Food Security Partnership was organized in June 2011 to support the activities to end food insecurity in our area. The Partnership has identified priorities to increase access to food resources and increase outreach and engagement to address food insecurity. Current projects include the Greene County Summer Food Program, the Greene County Weekend Food Program for school children, and outreach to increase knowledge about and access to public and private food resources.

The work of the Greene County Partnership, which is focused on action and activities - has become a model for other county partnerships in the southwest region.

The Partnership meets the second Wednesday of each month. For more information about meetings and the work of the partnership check out their website www.greenefoodpartnership.org.

Greene County Summer Food Program

When the summer months arrive and most children are excited for summer vacation, some children dread the break from school because they are no longer able to receive their free and reduced breakfasts and lunches from the school cafeteria. After identifying this community need in 2009, the Greater Pittsburgh Community Food Bank partnered with the Community Foundation of Greene County, local schools, nonprofit organizations, businesses and local government to address the concern and created the Summer Food Program.

The Community Foundation serves as a fiscal sponsor for the program to provide support through grants and marketing for the project. Similar to the Weekend Food Program, the Summer Food Program food is ordered by school district food service directors but is then distributed to designated sites where children can receive a meal. "The Summer Food Program is a tremendous program and a great opportunity for kids of all ages and backgrounds to receive a steady meal similar to what they are used to during the school year," said Jim Elseneimer Food Service Director West Greene School District.

Designated sites include the Bowlby Library, the Department of Recreation’s Summer Day Camp locations, WWJD Christian Center and others. The Bowlby Library offers summer reading programs for children and has been able to extend its offerings as a result of the Summer Food Program. Kathy McClure, Director of Children's Services explained, “We have summer programs and for us the Summer Food Program has allowed our children to be here the majority of the day and have a meal.”

The Greene County Department of Parks and Recreation hosts a summer day camp for children with multiple locations around Greene County. The camp offers educational programming and recreation to children as well as a hot meal and snack. "Because we have a lot of low income families, it helps to know these kids are getting at least one nutritional meal a day," said Pam Blaker Parks & Recreation Manager. The Summer Day Camp program alone served 7,826 meals in 2014.

Greene County Weekend Food Program

With more than 2,000 children estimated to be eligible for free school meals in Greene County, providing meals to eligible students at school is crucial, but what happens when they head home for the weekend? This need was identified and acted on by social workers, guidance counselors, teachers, food service administrators and community members in 2012 with the creation of the Weekend Food Program.

“This program just works… it’s the best example of a community of caring people,” said Donna Dire, IU1 District Social Worker at West Greene who was an integral part of starting the program for the West Greene School District. The program allows eligible students to receive a bag of non-perishable food items at the end of each school week to consume over the weekends. The school district food service directors prepare the menus for the packs and order the food through the school’s food vendor at a significantly reduced cost.
Sean Stark, Food Service Director for Carmichaels Area School District said, “The program is really making a difference. To see the smile on the kids’ faces after receiving their first pack is incredibly rewarding.” The pack includes 6 light nutritional meals for children that require no preparation. At a cost of $195 per year per child, children receive the packs for the 39 week school year.

The Community Foundation of Greene County serves as fiscal sponsor for the program and many hands are involved to make the program work from the food service directors to the teachers and the community of donors.

After hearing about the community need, the West Greene Lions Club was quick to become a donor of the program. “The numbers were astounding to us and we just had to do something,” explained Patty Jones of the West Greene Lions Club.

In 2014, 2,065 children were eligible for free and reduced lunch and only 140 were able to be part of the Weekend Food Program due to funding limitations. The program is serving many students but the support of donors is needed to be able to serve more!
